1st Place - Student Scientific Communications Session (SSCS 2025) – Faculty of Engineering in Foreign Languages (FILS)

- Paper Title: "Le Phénomène de Burnout parmi la Nouvelle Génération" (The Burnout Phenomenon Among the New Generation).
- Section: Communication in French.
- Methodology & Tools: Conducted an econometric analysis using Multiple Linear Regression (OLS) models developed in Python (utilizing the statsmodels library).

- Data Analysis: Extracted and processed datasets from Eurostat for 27 European countries to examine the impact of socio-professional variables, such as working hours, salary, and workplace harassment on burnout incidence.
- Key Findings: Demonstrated that workplace harassment and excessive working hours are the primary predictors of burnout among young adults, while highlighting that higher salaries do not necessarily offset a poor organizational climate.
